

Stanford | Distinguished Careers Institute

2015 Fellows

Andrew Adelson

TV and Film Producer; Educator
Los Angeles, CA

Award-winning producer Andrew (Andy) Adelson has more than 30 years experience managing both the creative and business aspects of film, television and digital media businesses. Through his companies, Adelson Entertainment and CinemaLab, Andy has produced 28 TV and film projects for IFC Films, First Look Studios, ABC, CBS, NBC, HBO, Showtime, TNT, and Lifetime. Adelson's projects have received multiple Emmy nominations, two Humanitas Prizes, Canada's Gemini, the Parents Choice Award, and the Penn/Faulkner, among others. Many of his projects have been international coproductions having shot in Japan, UK, Italy, Ireland and Canada. Andy has also founded and consulted Internet companies focusing on media, social, educational and political concerns since 1994.

Over the recent years Andy has served as Adjunct and Assistant Professor for Media Entrepreneurship at Chapman University Dodge College of Media Arts, both in Singapore and Orange, California. He has also served as Adjunct Professor at USC's School of Cinematic Arts.

Raj K. Bhargava

Senior Vice President, Products and Services, Satmetrix
Palo Alto, CA

In his current role at Satmetrix, Raj Bhargava is Senior Vice President, Products and Services. Raj has end-to-end responsibility for creating 100% positive references for the products and implementation services. Satmetrix provides cloud-based customer experience management solutions. Prior to Satmetrix, Raj served as Group Vice President of Product Development at Oracle after it acquired his previous employer, Agile Software Corporation.

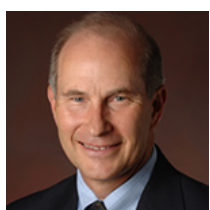

At Agile, he transformed their product lifecycle management solutions into the recognized market leader. Prior to Agile, Raj was co-founder of Jaspersoft, a leader in open source business intelligence software; Jaspersoft was acquired by TIBCO. Before Jaspersoft, Raj served as CEO and President of Trade Reporting and Data Exchange Inc., a provider of international sourcing and sales leads for small businesses in the United States and Asia. Raj started his career at Hewlett Packard and held several leadership positions in California and Germany.

Raj has been a longtime contributor to a charitable boarding school for blind and deaf girls, which is part of the Ram Krishna Vivekananda Mission. He has a deep interest in healthy cooking and enjoys participating in Waverley Kitchens, a family business focused on creating unique Indian spice blends. He also enjoys tandem biking with his wife, Rashmi, and playing racquetball. Raj has three children; two of his children are married, and he loves hiking and dining with them in different parts of the world.

Raj received a B.S. from IIT, Varanasi, India; an MS from Pennsylvania State University, State College; and an MBA from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Jeffrey D. Byron

Former California State Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commissioner; Member and Investor, Band of Angels
Los Altos, CA

Jeffrey (Jeff) Byron has nearly 40 years of experience in emerging energy technologies, customer requirements, and energy policy. His focus has been on the technical, regulatory, and financial implications of clean energy and smart grid technologies.

He consults with a number of startup companies developing unique generation and control technologies, energy management, and consumer-oriented smart grid devices. Jeff is Co-Chairman of the National Board of the Cleantech Open; a not-for-profit organization that runs the world's largest accelerator for clean technology startup companies. He is a member of the Band of Angels, Silicon Valley's oldest seed funding organization. Jeff recently served for five years on the California Energy Commission presiding over numerous power plant siting cases, public interest research and development, and state energy policy.

He began his career at GE's Nuclear Energy Division and has been involved in all aspects of electric power generation and has held executive positions at NRG Energy and Calpine. Jeff managed research at the Electric Power Research Institute in both fossil and nuclear power generation and commercialization roles culminating in the formation of the Hillview Group, a for-profit subsidiary. He co-founded BrightLine Energy, a distributed energy provider, and was Energy Director at Oracle Corporation.

Jeff is an expert on energy policy and clean-energy technologies who has developed strong relationships with energy providers, legislative, regulatory, and academic leaders. He received a BS and MS from Stanford University.

Susan J. Carter

CEO Commonfund Capital, Inc.
Riverside, CT

Susan (Sue) Carter is an accomplished leader, successful investor and strategic thinker with over 30 years of experience in the private capital investment markets. She is currently Chief Executive Officer of Commonfund Capital, Inc. (CCI), a firm she joined in 1989 shortly after its founding. CCI is the private capital subsidiary of Commonfund, a non-profit investment management firm founded in 1971 by a grant from The Ford Foundation. CCI, which manages over $13.5 billion in commitments from investors, has as its focus venture capital, private equity and natural resources investment strategies. The 50-person global team invests in funds, secondaries and co-investments. CCI is known for its strong returns, rigorous due diligence and stable, experienced and cohesive team.

Sue is a current board member of the Pacific Pension Institute. She also serves as a member of the Executive Advisory Board of the Center for Private Equity and Entrepreneurship at Dartmouth's Tuck School of Business, and as a guest panelist in their Private Equity MBA survey class.

Before joining CCI in 1989, Sue was with Morgan Stanley & Co. from 1985 to 1989. Prior to that, from 1978 to 1985, she was with General Electric (now GE Asset Management). She holds an AB degree in Economics and Business from Lafayette College and is a graduate of General Electric's Financial Management Program (FMP). She also completed the Woman's Director Development Program at Northwestern University's Kellogg School of Management.

Sue lives with her husband Nick and golden doodle Penny in Riverside, Connecticut. They are the proud parents of an adult daughter who lives in Brooklyn and adult son who lives in Los Angeles.

Steven S. Charlap, MD

Founder and CEO of Health Drive and MDPrevent
Boca Raton, FL

Steven Charlap's healthcare career, which spans over 30 years, has taken him in several directions. Trained as a surgeon, and armed with an MBA, he was initially recruited to become Director of Corporate Development for T-Cell Sciences (TCS), a publicly traded biotechnology company, at which he oversaw technology licensing and pharmaceutical partnerships.

In 1989, Steven left TCS to co-found, as CEO and Chief Medical Officer, HealthDrive Corporation, the largest U.S. provider of medical and dental services to extended care facilities. Over twenty years, a two-time Inc. 500 company, HealthDrive served more than five million patients in some 1,500 facilities across 13 states. In 2000, he published Making Sense of Nursing Homes—A Guide for Families.

During his HealthDrive tenure, Steven witnessed how the health care industry's non-focus on preventing chronic diseases often results in costly, invasive and reactive medical treatment for patients. In response, he developed the concept of MDPrevent—a multi-disciplinary, integrated primary care and preventive medicine practice focused on helping patients make lasting lifestyle changes to achieve exceptional lives.

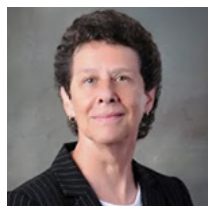

In 2014, he published "Why I Just Closed My Preventive Care Clinic" in The Atlantic. Steven's keen interests include identifying well-done, actionable clinical studies focused on improving health and life-span. His life goal is to play a meaningful role in the advancement of scientific breakthroughs that can both improve human longevity and our quality of life. To that end, he enjoys lecturing extensively on health related topics and writing a health blog.

Steven Charlap received a BA from Yeshiva University, where he majored in Speech & Drama, an MD from New York University School of Medicine, and an MBA from Harvard Business School.

Steven is married to Yael, has three adult children, Danielle, Justin, and Nicole, and lives in Boca Raton, Florida.

Monica D. Colondres

Former Director, Human Resources, San Mateo County Transit District
Redwood City, CA

Monica Colondres, a leader in human resources, recently retired as the Director of Human Resources with the San Mateo County Transit District (SamTrans). Her career encompasses 37 years of public service. Starting as a bus driver with the SamTrans in 1977, she quickly advanced to various departments including the maintenance and operations departments, where she gained a hands-on knowledge of the transportation industry. After achieving the rank of Superintendent, Base Operations, Monica transitioned into the Human Resources department at SamTrans. In 1991 she was promoted to Director of Human Resources. The field of conflict resolution was the most challenging aspect of her career; Colondres converted adversaries to allies to establish and maintain mutually beneficial relationships.

As the first person in her family to attend college, Monica earned a bachelor's degree in Organization Behavior at University of San Francisco (1989) and a Master's in Business Administration from Notre Dame de Namur University in 2004.

Jerome H. Debs II

Founder and Chief Investment Officer, Bodri Capital Management
Palo Alto, CA

Jerome (John) Debs II is the Founder and Chief Investment Office for Bodri Capital Management. Originally from Chicago, he attended Stanford University earning an AB degree in History, Class of 1966 and an MBA from The Stanford Graduate School of Business, Class of 1968.

Deciding upon a career in the investment business, he spent his first 10 years as a security analyst and then started his first hedge fund in San Francisco in 1989. Presently, John is the Managing Partner of the Catfish Fund, L.P. a fund that he started in 2001 and manages with three associates, all Stanford graduates. The fund has approximately $275 million in assets and is located in the Ferry Building in San Francisco.

For the last 20 years, John and his wife Catherine have also focused on giving back, by investing in select non-profits, with a focus on K-12 education. The Debs have endowed 75 scholarships at City College of San Francisco in memory of John's mother, Ruth. They have also endowed scholarships for the Stanford men's basketball and football teams as well as a chair in Orthopedic Traumatology at the University of Washington. John was a trustee at Reed College, an investment manager of the Stanford Business School Trust, and a board member of the Stanford Athletic Board. His most recent focus includes National Public Radio, Tipping Point, Teach for America, Rocketship Education, and KIPP Bay Area Schools.

Mary Jane Elmore

Former General Partner and Present Consultant, Institutional Venture Partners (IVP); Member, Sand Hill Angels
Palo Alto, CA

Mary Jane (MJ) Elmore was one of the first women partners in the West Coast venture capital community. She began her career in Silicon Valley working for Intel Corporation in marketing. MJ was part of a small team of professionals across all divisions of Intel that worked closely with the sales force to achieve market leadership of Intel microprocessors in the early 1980s.

After earning her MBA at Stanford, she joined the venture capital firm of Institutional Venture Partners (IVP), Menlo Park, CA in 1982 and was made a General Partner in 1983. At IVP, MJ focused on investments in the fields of software, communications and computer-aided engineering. She served as a general partner in eight IVP funds and on the Board of Directors of numerous private and public information technology companies. MJ has been an investor in early stage start-up companies as well as in companies that are raising expansion capital. Currently she is an advisor to the IVP funds and a private angel investor and a member of the Sand Hill Angels. As an independent angel investor, MJ now looks to back people and ideas that intersect with her personal passions of art, music, fashion, travel, food and social media.

She earned a BS in Mathematics from Purdue University in 1976 and an MBA from Stanford University in 1982. Ms. Elmore is actively involved in philanthropies that advance education at all levels and passionate about the visual arts.

Chris Espinosa

Special Projects, Apple
Menlo Park, CA

Chris Espinosa manages special projects for Apple Inc.. His most recent project is Family Sharing, which allows parents to create and supervise iTunes accounts for their children and share personal information and digital purchases securely within a family. He has developed and delivered dozens of products for Apple in a variety of roles in both engineering and marketing over his 37-year career at Apple, starting at the dawn of the Personal Computer revolution in 1976. Chris is best known for introducing the groundbreaking HyperCard application, which Sir Tim Berners-Lee cited as a significant inspiration for the World Wide Web.

Catherine L. Gilliss, PhD

Helene Fuld Health Trust Professor and Former Dean of the Duke School of Nursing
Durham, NC and San Francisco, CA

Catherine Gilliss is currently on leave from Duke University, following ten successful and fulfilling years in the positions of Dean and Vice Chancellor for Nursing Affairs; she stepped down in August 2014.

Catherine has held faculty appointments in universities offering higher degrees in nursing throughout her career as well as administrative academic leadership positions: Chair, UCSF's Department of Family Health Nursing (1993-1998); Dean of the Yale University School of Nursing (1998-2004); and Dean and Vice Chancellor at Duke (2004-2014). Her academic leadership roles and involvement in the governance of professional societies/community boards (e.g., President, American Academy of Nursing; Regent, University of Portland; and Board Member, Triangle Residential Options for Substance Abusers) has strengthened her commitment to the development of leadership skills in others. Catherine now serves as a Director of CHIMERIX, a publically traded biopharmaceutical company devoted to discovery, development and commercialization of novel, oral antivirals in areas of high unmet medical need.

Catherine's scientific interests focus on complex social organizations, particularly the family and its response to and role in shaping the course of chronic illness. Her scholarly works in family studies are considered pioneering.

Catherine earned her undergraduate degree at Duke University; her MSN degree from The Catholic University of America; a post-MS certificate from the University of Rochester; and completed her doctoral and post-doctoral studies at the University of California, San Francisco.

Rich Goldberg, PhD

Vice President, Corporate Quality, Cisco Systems
Los Gatos, CA

Rich Goldberg is the Vice President of Corporate Quality at Cisco Systems. He joined Cisco in January of 2005, after spending 28 years at AT&T and Bell Laboratories. At Cisco, Rich leads programs that improve customer experience, through process, product and service quality. He also leads the operations for Cisco's Quality Experience Steering Committee, which brings together leaders from across the business to achieve company-wide quality excellence.

Rich is active in both academic and quality improvement communities. Currently, he serves as an advisor for the University of California San Diego Jacobs School of Engineering, where he also chairs their Corporate Affiliates Program, and the University of the Pacific School of Engineering and Computer Science. He is also an active member of the QuEST Forum Executive Board and the ASQ executive roundtable.

Supporting the community and driving awareness of diversity in the workforce are passions for Rich. Until recently he co-chaired Cisco's Silicon Valley Civic Council, facilitating volunteerism and philanthropy across Cisco's headquarters in San Jose. He also sponsors and participates in a number of programs that give visibility to inclusion and opportunities for women professionals at work, including co-leading the newly formed Cisco Men for Inclusion.

Rich has attended the Executive Program in Business at the University of Michigan. He has a PhD in Physics from Caltech, and a Bachelor of Science degree in Physics from MIT.

When Rich isn't working, he enjoys exercise, golf, home improvement projects, and spending time with his wife Linda, three children and two grandchildren.

Barbara Goldstein

Principal, Barbara Goldstein & Associates; Independent consultant on creative placement and public art planning
San Jose, CA

Barbara Goldstein is an independent consultant focusing on creative placemaking and public art planning. She is the former Public Art Director for the City of San Jose Office of Cultural Affairs and editor of Public Art by the Book, a primer published by Americans for the Arts and the University of Washington Press. Barbara has directed the public art programs in Seattle and Los Angeles, worked as a cultural planner, architectural and art critic, editor and publisher. She has lectured and participated in workshops on public art in the United States, Japan, China, Taiwan, Korea, Canada the Netherlands and Abu Dhabi. She is past chair of the Chair of the Public Art Network for Americans for the Arts.

Since 2011, Barbara has been consulting in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Pasadena, California; Charlotte, North Carolina; Las Vegas, Nevada and Morgan Hill, California. In 2013, she led a series of webinars entitled Creative Placemaking and Public Art for Americans for the Arts.

Barbara has a bachelor's degree in fine arts/architecture from the Rhode Island School of Design and studied in their European Honors Program in Rome, Italy.

Stephen C. Goodall

Retired President and CEO, JD Power and Associates; Board Member, Outsell Inc.
San Mateo, CA

Stephen (Steve) Goodall is the retired President and CEO of J.D. Power and Associates, a leading market research firm specializing in customer satisfaction and buyer behavior. He started his career at J.D. Power in 1978 and opened the company's first satellite office in Detroit, Michigan in 1988. He was named President in 1996 and served as President and CEO until 2008, leading the company's global expansion as well as diversification into other industries beyond automotive. He oversaw the sale of the company to The McGraw Hill Companies, Inc. in 2005. Currently, Steve is an investor and Board Member in Outsell Inc, a research and advisory firm specializing in publishing, information, and technology, as well as several other early-stage private companies. Steve also serves as the Founder and President of a small education-focused charitable foundation.

Steve received a Bachelors of Science degree in Business Administration, Marketing and a Bachelors of Arts in psychology degree from California State University, Chico. He also has an MBA from the University of Southern California.

Miriam L. Haas

President, Mimi and Peter Haas Fund
San Francisco, CA

Mimi Haas is President of the Mimi and Peter Haas Fund, a position she has held since August 1981. As President of the Mimi and Peter Haas Fund, Mrs. Haas has been deeply committed to ensuring that low-income young children and their families receive access to high-quality early care and education as well as health services in San Francisco. With the overwhelming evidence of the importance of early development and education, Mrs. Haas has been steadfast in supporting programs that lay the emotional, physical and intellectual foundation for every child to enter kindergarten ready to learn.

Mrs. Haas serves on the Board of Directors of Levi Strauss & Co. She is Vice Chair of the Board of Trustees and Chair of the Committee on Painting and Sculpture of the New York Museum of Modern Art; is Vice Chair of the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art; and serves on the Board of Trustees of Lincoln Center. Mrs. Haas is a member of the National Advisory Board of the Haas Center for Public Service at Stanford University, a member of the Council on Foreign Relations, and a member of the Global Philanthropists Circle. Mrs. Haas was previously a director of The Terry Sanford Institute for Public Policy at Duke University, San Francisco Symphony, San Francisco University High School, Summerbridge National, and Children Now.

Shawn Hardin

Co-Founder & CEO, Mind Pirate
Menlo Park, CA

Shawn Hardin has spent the last two decades leading technology-driven entrepreneurial ventures. Currently he is the Founder/CEO of Mind Pirate, a platform provider for Internet of Everything (IoE) and wearable computing applications. Before Mind Pirate, Shawn was an Entrepreneur In Residence at Bessemer Venture Partners and Shasta Ventures, where he evaluated new investment opportunities and advised entrepreneurs.

Previously, Shawn was the CEO of Flock, the award-winning social web browser that grew to become the #1 most popular desktop application on Facebook in 2010 and was acquired by Zynga. Prior to Flock, Shawn was an executive at Yahoo! and led a diverse portfolio of businesses with more than 30M active users. Earlier, Shawn co-founded AOL's broadband division where he served as Senior Vice President and helped grow the broadband business to over 5M paid subscribers and $1.2B in revenue. Prior to joining AOL, Shawn spent eight years with NBC, where he co-founded the company's online group in 1994 and ultimately rose to the position of EVP & Chief Product Officer at NBCi.

Shawn is currently a director member of the Directors Guild of America and a board member at the CFCMediaLab/ideaBOOST business accelerator. Past board appointments include NPR Online, AFI's Enhanced TV Program, the PGA's New Media Council and ATAS. Shawn also worked as a filmmaker on more than 70 film/TV productions and, as the founding Governor-elect for Interactive Media at the TV Academy, he oversaw creation of the first Emmy Award for interactive programming. Shawn holds a BA in Cinema/TV from the University of Southern California.

Christopher M. Harte

Chairman, Harte-Hanks Inc; former Publisher, Minneapolis Star Tribune
Austin, TX

Christopher (Chris) Harte is chairman of the board of Harte-Hanks Inc. (a NYSE-listed direct marketing company) and has served on its board since 1993. He spent much of his career in the newspaper business, most recently as publisher of the Minneapolis Star Tribune, and previously as publisher of the Portland Press Herald, Akron Beacon Journal, and Centre Daily Times. Chris began his newspaper career as managing editor of the Stanford Daily and was a reporter for the Associated Press bureau at the Texas Capitol, and a manager at the Miami Herald, Knight-Ridder's newspaper division, and the Austin American-Statesman.

He has served as a director of two other public companies, Crown Resources Corp. and Geokinetics Inc., and numerous private companies. Chris is a director of the Austin Community Foundation and was previously a director of Outward Bound USA, the National Audubon Society, and the Stanford Alumni Association. He is a member of the University of Texas Development Board and its past chairman, and a member of UT's College of Natural Sciences advisory council.

Chris has a BA from Stanford and an MBA from The University of Texas. He was an associate at McKinsey & Company in Dallas before entering the newspaper business. Chris has also been an active private equity investor in other industries, involved in more than a dozen acquisitions and turnarounds.

He has been restoring prairie and savannah at his ranch west of Austin for 25 years. His wife, Katherine, is an anesthesiologist in practice in Portland, Maine. Chris has a son, Will, Stanford '10, MS '11, who is a project manager at Lime Lab in San Francisco, and two stepdaughters.

Kate Jerome

Author and Curriculum Specialist
Charleston, SC

Kate Jerome is an award-winning children's book author and a passionate science literacy advocate. Kate has been engaging young readers with break-through educational materials for more than 30 years -- as both the president of a major publishing company and a trail-blazing entrepreneur.

Kate discovered the world of educational publishing in 1981 when she joined Chicago area's Scott Foresman and Company as an entry-level editor. Kate's creative vision and leadership skills generated a stream of market-leading programs -- from science and health to reading and math. As a result, Kate advanced rapidly through the organization and, in 1993, was named President of Scott Foresman, simultaneously serving as a Senior Vice-President on HarperCollins Publisher's Executive Board in New York.

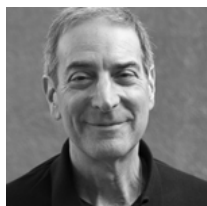

In 2001 she launched her own business to further her mission as an author and developer of effective learning systems. Since its inception, Kate has created a range of innovative series--writing more than 70 books and crafting motivating online material -- in collaboration with leading educational and trade publishers such as National Geographic, Penguin, and TeacherVision (www.katejerome.com). Her body of work, including Spanish and Chinese translations, has influenced untold thousands of K-12 students.

Kate is married and has two grown children. She resides in Daniel Island, South Carolina where she is a dedicated volunteer in the greater Charleston community and an active Emeritus Board Member of the South Carolina Aquarium. Kate holds a B.S. in Education from Miami University with a major in biological sciences and a minor in environmental sciences.

Charles J. Katz, Jr.

Former Partner, Perkins Coie; Former Executive Vice President, Opware, Inc.
Palo Alto, CA

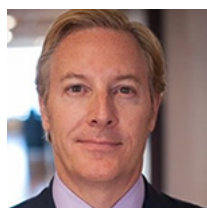

Charles (Chuck) Katz is currently involved in family business and foundation activities. Previously he served as Executive Vice President of Opware, Inc., a company that provided software for managing internet operations that was acquired in 2007 by Hewlett-Packard, and as a partner for nearly 20 years at the law firm Perkins Coie, where he specialized in corporate finance transactions. During his years practicing law, Chuck was recognized in The Best Lawyers in America for corporate law. His clients included Amazon and McCaw Cellular.

He is a member of the National Council of the World Wildlife Fund, the Board of Advisors to the School of Earth Sciences at Stanford University, and the Board of Advisors to the Woods Institute for the Environment at Stanford University. Chuck is a former director of Recreational Equipment, Inc. (REI), the Student Conservation Association, the Seattle Art Museum, the Henry Art Gallery of the University of Washington and the Seattle regional board of the Anti-Defamation League.

Chuck received a bachelor's degree from Stanford University (1969), a master's degree in art history from the Institute of Fine Arts, New York University (1973) and a law degree from the University of Texas (1976). Chuck is an avid photographer, bicyclist and hiker. His photography publications include The Power of Trees, (text by Dr. Gretchen C. Daily), Trinity University Press, 2012, Etched in Stone, The Geology of City of Rocks National Reserve and Castle Rocks State Park, Idaho (text by Dr. Kevin R. Pogue), Idaho Geological Survey, 2008, Erratics (text by Dr. Kevin R. Pogue), Sheehan Art Gallery, Whitman College, 2002 and Annapurna Sanctuary (text by Mingma Sherpa and Bruce Bunting), World Wildlife Fund, 2000.

Richard Kimball

Retired Partner and Co-Head, Global Healthcare Investment Banking, Goldman Sachs
New York City, NY

Richard (Rick) A. Kimball, Jr. was an investment banker and venture capitalist for 26 years at Goldman Sachs, Morgan Stanley and Millennium Technology Partners. He retired as a partner at Goldman Sachs in 2012 where he was Co-head of Global Healthcare Investment Banking and Co-head of Healthcare, Consumer and Retail Equity Capital Markets. Previously, Rick worked at Morgan Stanley for 17 years where he ran Healthcare Equity Capital Markets and Healthcare Services Investment Banking. Rick was Co-founder and Managing Partner of Millennium Technology Partners, a venture capital firm focused on early-stage Internet infrastructure.

Most recently, Rick was the Chief Strategy and Growth Officer at Accretive Health, a healthcare technology company, where he was responsible for strategy, business development, sales, marketing, product management and population health. In this role, Rick led the development of a transformation strategy to evolve the company's innovative revenue cycle management business by facilitating deeper patient engagement by hospitals and building the foundation for population health programs.

Rick is a trustee of the Brookings Institution where he is a member of the Audit Committee and the Metropolitan Studies Leadership Council. Rick was previously on the board of the Ralph Lauren Center for Cancer Care and Prevention in Harlem, a single member corporation of Memorial Sloan Kettering. Rick is a member of the Young Presidents Organization (YPO). Rick received a BA in Economics from Yale University in 1986.

Jere Brooks King

Marketing Consultant and Nonprofit Volunteer; Retired Vice President, Marketing, Cisco Systems
Palo Alto, CA

Jere Brooks King is a former high technology executive who is currently serving as a marketing consultant and nonprofit volunteer in the California Bay Area. For more than 35 years, she held a variety of sales and marketing positions at technology companies including IBM, Auto-trol Technology, SDRC, Autodesk, and Cisco. Ms. King's organizations have received hundreds of awards for their innovative work in branding and marketing. Most recently, Jere was a vice president of marketing at Cisco Systems for 16 years, retiring in November 2011.

During 2012, she completed an Encore Fellowship with Abilities United, a Palo Alto nonprofit focused on community inclusion that has been serving children and adults with developmental disabilities.

Throughout her career, Jere has engaged in leadership initiatives for women and nonprofit board service. While at Cisco she helped to create Perspectives, a networking forum for women executives. Since 2000, she has been involved with Women Unlimited as a sponsor, mentor, and speaker for women aspiring to executive roles. She has served on the board of directors for the Direct Marketing Association (DMA), the Bay Area Adoption Services (BAAS), and Abilities United. Ms. King holds an MBA degree from the University of Denver and a BA degree from Kalamazoo College. She is married with twin sons.

Diane L. Morris

Founder and President, Morris Capital Management
San Francisco, CA

Diane Morris is the chairman of Morris Capital Management, an investment management company, and an active philanthropist. She has honed her broad leadership skills as a passionate fundraiser for the arts, education, and conservation. Her Board affiliations, to name a few, have included the Aspen Institute, United Nations Association, the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, the San Francisco Opera, All Kinds of Minds, the Pacific Presbyterian Hospital Foundation, the Graduate School of Education at the University of California-Berkeley, San Francisco University High School, Marin Country Day School, the San Francisco Day School, and the Advisory Board of the Yale Center for Environmental Law and Policy.

She recently retired, after serving six years, as Chairman of the Chairman's Council for Conservation International. Diane is a native of San Francisco and has two children. She holds a BS degree from the University of California, Berkeley.

Marcello Palazzi

Founder, Progressio Foundation; Co Founder B Lab Europe
The Netherlands

Marcello Palazzi is an entrepreneur and philanthropreneur, pursuing a double teenage passion for entrepreneurship and ethical values as the sources of human progress, which he later, in 1989 expressed in practice through the creation of the Progressio Foundation (from the Latin ‘of progress’). Launched with Dr. Paul Kloppenborg in Rotterdam, the foundation has completed over 300 entrepreneurial ventures, projects, initiatives in 33 countries under his leadership, www.progressio.org.

His current major activity is the launch and leadership of B Corporations in Europe (B for Benefit), www.bcorporation.net. Palazzi has lived and studied in Italy, Switzerland, the UK, the Netherlands, and the USA. He is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts in London, Member of the Club of Rome, winner of The Economist Prize for his work on Strategic Philanthropy, back in 1987, probably the earliest work on the subject. Palazzi began his career as a young technology entrepreneur at age 23, growing a family business in environmental diagnostics internationally. Palazzi’s alma maters include: London School of Economics, London Business School, Erasmus University Rotterdam, and Harvard University (2013 Advanced Leadership Fellow). Academically active, Palazzi has written “Towards the Civic Economy” in 1990, which laid the groundwork for the work of the Progressio Foundation. He has been a visiting lecturer, tutor and mentor to students and professionals for many years. His next goal is to complete a PhD on “Entrepreneurship for Public Good” he started in 1989.

Palazzi has been happily married for 30 years to Leonore van Hövell tot Westerflier, Dutch art historian and Hatha yoga instructor. Together, they have three grown-up children, Titiaan, Ottavio and Clara.

James G. Wetrich

CEO, the Wetrich Group LLC and the Wetrich Group SCO LLC.
Southlake, TX

James (Jim) Wetrich has been deeply involved in healthcare for more than 30 years. He is currently the CEO of The Wetrich Group LLC and The Wetrich Group SCO LLC. Founded in 2001, The Wetrich Group offers a wide variety of advisory, marketing strategy and human capital management consulting services. In 2014, The Wetrich Group SCO LLC purchased the assets of Haney/Lowderman LLC, a firm specializing in outplacement services for hospital executives.

During his career, Jim has worked in hospital administration and hospital management consulting. In the mid-1980s, he played an instrumental role in the development of the University HealthSystem Consortium. Jim worked at Abbott Laboratories for 11 years where he began as the Manager of Corporate Strategic Planning. While at Abbott, he spent four years in product marketing; two years as Marketing Director for European Operations; two years as Director of HealthSystem Sales; and four years as Divisional Vice President. Jim worked at Molnlycke Health Care where he served as President and General Manager of the Americas.

Jim has a B.S. in Biological Sciences from the University of Southern California; a Master of Health Administration from Tulane University; and a MBA from Emory University. He serves on a number of boards and advisory boards. He is currently on the board of Optomeditech, Movi Medical, and Debra of America. Jim is a Fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives and has received the Outstanding Alumnus Award from Tulane University. Jim is married to Nancy and they have two boys, Marc and Matt.

<http://wetrichgroup.com/about-us/senior-management/>

Robert Wilson

Founding Partner, Gaia Labs LLC

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil

Robert Wilson's professional career has focused on private equity (PE) and venture capital (VC) investing in the emerging markets for over twenty years, primarily with Citi or Citi-affiliated investment funds, particularly in Brazil and Latin America.

He is the founder and managing partner of Gaia Labs LLC, a venture capital backed company-building accelerator. Robert was a founding partner and Citi liaison to the Citi-sponsored and Rio de Janeiro-based CVC/Opportunity Equity Partners L.P. (the "CVC Fund"), a USD 1.5 billion PE fund (USD 750MM from Citi) focused on Brazil's privatizations. Prior to the CVC Fund, Robert was VP-Equity Investments at Citi in New York, where he managed the bank's global debt-for-equity swap program and the resulting portfolio of investments. As a PE/VC professional, Robert has invested approximately US$2.0 billion and generated a gross IRR of better than 23%.

Prior to Citi, Robert spent four years in New York City government, focused on finance, real estate and economic development. He was Assistant to the General Counsel at the NYC Office of Management & Budget, and later Chief of Staff to the Deputy Mayor for Finance & Economic Development. His last position in NYC government was as head of the Division of Real Property, the City's commercial real estate arm.

Robert has an undergraduate degree from Stanford and a law degree from Harvard. He blogs at <http://www.siliconbeach.vc>.